

MapIT Source Register

Sources used for IT role categories, job role mapping, and certification recommendations

Prepared for: Akshay Kumar | Date: 8 June 2026

Purpose: This PDF documents the official and reference sources used to build the earlier MapIT-style job role taxonomy and certification recommendation matrix. It is designed as a research-source sheet for a career pathway or mind-map website, not as a final legal/accreditation guide. Certification names, costs, exam codes, and validity can change, so MapIT should periodically refresh source data from the official provider pages.

1. How to read this source register

- Role/category sources are workforce frameworks, occupation taxonomies, and official labor-market classifications. These help define role families such as IT Support, Cloud, Cybersecurity, Software Engineering, Data, ITSM, ERP/CRM, and leadership roles.
- Certification sources are primarily official vendor, standards-body, or government/industry skilling pages. These support recommendations such as CompTIA A+, ITIL, CCNA, AWS, Azure, Google Cloud, CISSP, ServiceNow, Salesforce, NIELIT, NSDC, FutureSkills Prime, and C-DAC.
- The earlier role list was synthesized from multiple taxonomies and market conventions. Some job titles are common industry titles and may not appear exactly in a single official taxonomy.
- For a production MapIT database, treat these sources as seed sources and add live job-posting research from LinkedIn, Naukri, Indeed, Wellfound, company career pages, and ATS postings.

7. Refresh and validation rules for MapIT

- Use official provider pages as the primary source for certification names, exam codes, retirement dates, validity, pricing and prerequisites.
- Use role/occupation taxonomies such as O*NET, BLS, SFIA, NICE, ESCO and NSDC as taxonomy sources, but validate current hiring demand through recent job postings.
- Separate three labels in the app: Required, Preferred, and Helpful. A certification should not be marked Required unless job postings frequently state it as mandatory for that specific role.
- For India pages, keep a separate India-recognized filter using NIELIT, NSDC/QP-NOS, FutureSkills Prime, C-DAC, SWAYAM/NPTEL and sector skill councils.
- Update cloud, AI, cybersecurity and vendor platform certifications at least every quarter because exam codes, names and versions change often.
- Do not use unofficial blogs as authoritative sources for exam names. Blogs can be used only for exam-prep context, salary context, or market commentary.
